PREFACE

Reading remains the cornerstone of all learning, yet it continues to be one of the most persistent and complex challenges confronting basic education today. In response to this need, the Schools Division of Bukidnon proudly introduces the Bukidnon’s Unified Literacy and Intervention Gateway (BULIG)—a division-wide transformative innovation designed to strengthen reading proficiency, accelerate learning recovery, and ensure that every learner develops the literacy skills necessary for academic success and lifelong learning.

BULIG is not merely a program; it embodies a unified literacy movement grounded in collaboration, evidence-based practices, and a strong commitment to equity and inclusivity in education. Guided by its tagline, “Building Up Literacy, Inspiring Growth,” BULIG aspires to cultivate a culture where reading is valued, supported, and sustained—empowering learners to reach their full academic and personal potential.

By harmonizing instructional approaches, consolidating reading intervention materials, and promoting consistent implementation across schools, BULIG provides a coherent and adaptive support system that responds to the diverse needs of learners. It seeks to close longstanding gaps in reading performance, strengthen teacher capacity, and institutionalize effective and sustainable literacy practices.

Central to the implementation of BULIG is its alignment with the ARAL Program (Academic Recovery and Accessible Learning)—DepEd’s national learning recovery initiative. By integrating ARAL’s targeted intervention cycles, diagnostic assessments, and remediation strategies, BULIG strengthens its capacity to address learning loss, support struggling readers, and reinforce foundational skills essential for progression in the curriculum. This synergy ensures that learners receive timely, differentiated, and research-informed interventions that enable them to overcome reading challenges and build confidence.

Through the unified efforts of BULIG and ARAL, the Division of Bukidnon envisions classrooms where every learner reads with fluency, comprehends with accuracy, and engages with texts meaningfully. The initiative aspires to cultivate empowered, independent readers equipped with the skills necessary for higher-order learning, academic excellence, and holistic development.

As we move forward, let us affirm our collective commitment to making literacy not only a priority but a guaranteed reality for all learners. Through shared responsibility, strong instructional leadership, and unwavering dedication to quality basic education, we can ensure that no Bukidnon learner is left behind in the pursuit of literacy and lifelong learning.

BULIG Bukidnon! Lig-on Bukidnon!

JAY'S CURIOSITY

"Is Father going hunting?" Jay asked his mother when he saw his father get his gun and go out of the house.

"Didn't you listen to the radio, Jay?" asked her mother. "Every citizen who owns a gun without license is asked to surrender it to the government."

"Will Father be punished for owning a gun?" asked Jay.

"No, Jay," answered Mother. "No questions will be asked to citizens who surrender their guns. They will also be issued receipts."

"That is a very good move to prevent crimes," said Jay. "Ordinary citizens like us will have nothing to be afraid of anymore."

"You're right, Jay," agreed Mother. "There is peace around us now."

A FAIRY TALE FROM JAPAN

Once upon a time there lived an old couple in one small village in Japan. They had no children so they went from temple to temple to offer prayers to their gods so that they might be blessed with a child. But their prayers were in vain.

One morning, after working in the garden, the couple sat down under a peach tree to rest. The husband was telling his wife how much he wanted to have a son to help him in his garden when a very big peach fell on his wife's lap. She got the fruit and put it in her pocket.

After a while, they went home for breakfast. As the husband was about to cut the peach, he heard a cry. "Let me out!" said the voice. When the wife looked into the fruit, she saw a child as big as her little finger. The woman lifted the child and kissed him.

"I heard your prayers up there," the child said, "So I came to be your son."

"We will love you very much," the couple said.

The couple called the tiny child Peaching. They devoted their time in making him happy. They treated him like a real son. But Peaching did not grow big like other children. Yet he could help his father plow the field by sitting on the right ear of the plow horse and directing him where to go. He could also go marketing for his mother by carrying the coins in a small bag. He would sit in the market basket carried by a dog.

He always did his marketing early to avoid curious people who might notice him. The couple found a good helper in their tiny son. They loved him more each day.

One night as Peaching's parents were sleeping, they both have similar dreams. They dreamed that if they would dip their tiny son into the brook that was in their yard, he would grow up like other children.

The next morning the happy parents told each other about their dreams.

They tiptoed to their tiny son's room. The husband carried the bed where their tiny son was sleeping soundly. He immersed the bed with the tiny boy into the brook.

They were both surprised when the bed seemed to have disappeared from their hands. They were so frightened that they began looking for it among the waterlilies near the bank of the brook.

They heard a merry laughter behind them. When they turned, the couple saw a young man holding the tiny bed in his hands.

"Father, Mother, I am Peaching," he said as he rushed and embraced the couple.

"A wicked fairy bewitched me and placed me inside a peach," Peaching explained. "Because you loved me and baptized me in this brook, the enchantment was broken. Now I will really be a son to you."

The more he became a great help to the couple. He loved his foster parents dearly. Not long after, Peaching met a lass from another barrio. He fell in love with her and they were married.

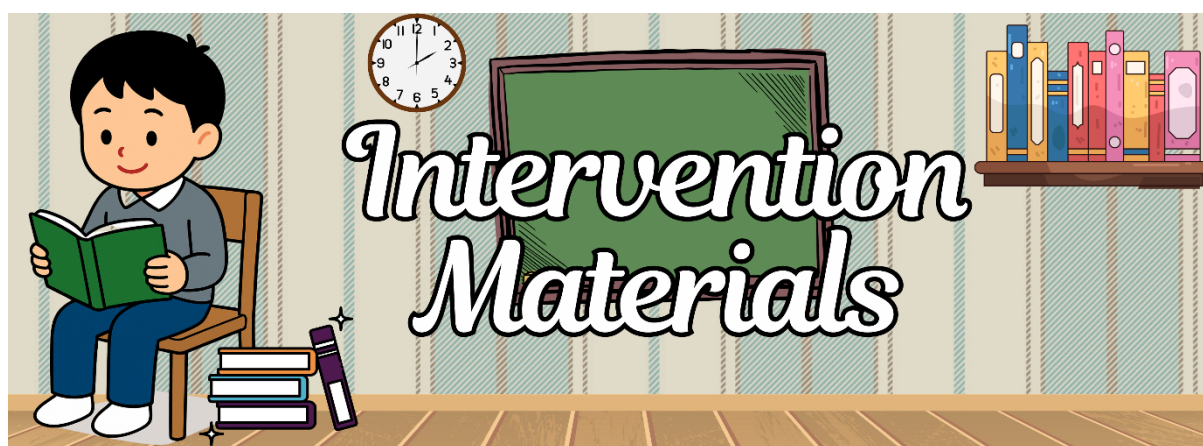

The old couple lived happily with their dear son and his family ever after.

ED'S DAY

As Ed passed in his neighbor's yard, he saw Tiger, his neighbor's dog, stumble and fall across the live fallen electric wire. Tiger gave one wild yell of pain and lay on the ground, kicking and struggling to set himself loose from the wire.

Ed stopped his neighbor's two sons from going near the dog. He saw one of the boys rush towards the dog, crying. He ran to prevent the boy from touching the dog.

"Oh, poor Tiger!" Ed said with tears in his eyes as he saw Tiger, helplessly freeing himself. Then he turned to the boys and shouted, "Keep back there or that wire will kill you, too."

"Run home quickly and call up the Electrical Company," Ed told one of the brothers. "Tell them a live wire has killed a dog and may kill others too if they don't hurry. Give the address. Run!"

1. What did Ed see?

- A. how a fallen electric wire killed the passerby
- B. how a dog was killed by a live, fallen electric wire
- C. how a boy was killed by a live, fallen electric wire

2. Who did Ed save from harm?
- A. Tiger
 - B. the two boys
 - C. the man from the Electric Company
3. From whom would the boys ask for help?
- A. from the people
 - B. from their parents
 - C. from the Electric Company

THE FOX AND THE STORK

The fox and the stork were formerly good friends. They often visited each other. One day, the fox invited the stork to dinner because he wanted to play a joke on her. At the dinner table, the fox put soup in a very shallow dish before the stork. The fox could easily lap the soup, but the poor stork could only wet the end of her long bill. So, she left the dinner table as hungry as when she came.

"I'm sorry you did not like the soup," said the fox.

"Oh, please, don't apologize," said the stork sweetly. "I hope you will come and dine with me soon."

So came the day when the fox visited the stork. The stork served their dinner in a jar with a very long neck and a narrow mouth. All the fox could do was lick the outside of the jar.

1. How did the fox feel when he saw where the stork served dinner?
 - A. He was angry.
 - B. He was happy.
 - C. The story does not say.
2. What do you think happened?

A FAIRY TALE FROM JAPAN

Once upon a time there lived an old couple in one small village in Japan. They had no children so they went from temple to temple to offer prayers to their gods so that they might be blessed with a child. But their prayers were in vain.

One morning, after working in the garden, the couple sat down under a peach tree to rest. The husband was telling his wife how much he wanted to have a son to help him in his garden when a very big peach fell on his wife's lap. She got the fruit and put it in her pocket.

After a while, they went home for breakfast. As the husband was about to cut the peach, he heard a cry. "Let me out!" said the voice. When the wife looked into the fruit, she saw a child as big as her little finger. The woman lifted the child and kissed him.

"I heard your prayers up there," the child said, "So I came to be your son."

"We will love you very much," the couple said.

The couple called the tiny child Peaching. They devoted their time in making him happy. They treated him like a real son. But Peaching did not grow big like other children. Yet he could help his father plow the field by sitting on the right ear of the plow horse and directing him where to go. He could also go marketing for his mother by carrying the coins in a small bag. He would sit in the market basket carried by a dog.

He always did his marketing early to avoid curious people who might notice him. The couple found a good helper in their tiny son. They loved him more each day.

One night as Peaching's parents were sleeping, they both have similar dreams. They dreamed that if they would dip their tiny son into the brook that was in their yard, he would grow up like other children.

The next morning the happy parents told each other about their dreams.

They tiptoed to their tiny son's room. The husband carried the bed where their tiny son was sleeping soundly. He immersed the bed with the tiny boy into the brook.

They were both surprised when the bed seemed to have disappeared from their hands. They were so frightened that they began looking for it among the waterlilies near the bank of the brook.

They heard a merry laughter behind them. When they turned, the couple saw a young man holding the tiny bed in his hands.

"Father, Mother, I am Peaching," he said as he rushed and embraced the couple.

"A wicked fairy bewitched me and placed me inside a peach," Peaching explained. "Because you loved me and baptized me in this brook, the enchantment was broken. Now I will really be a son to you."

The more he became a great help to the couple. He loved his foster parents dearly. Not long after, Peaching met a lass from another barrio. He fell in love with her and they were married.

The old couple lived happily with their dear son and his family ever after.
