PREFACE

Reading is the cornerstone of learning, yet it remains one of the most pressing challenges in education today. In response, the Division of Bukidnon proudly introduces Bukidnon's Unified Literacy and Intervention Gateway (BULIG) — a transformative innovation designed to improve learners' reading ability and empower every child to succeed.

BULIG is more than a program; it is a unified movement for literacy, built on collaboration, evidence-based strategies, and a deep commitment to equity in education. This initiative bridges gaps in reading proficiency by providing targeted interventions, innovative approaches, and sustainable support systems that cater to the diverse needs of learners across the division.

Through BULIG, we envision classrooms where every learner reads with confidence, comprehends with clarity, and learns with purpose. This gateway opens opportunities for life-long learning, ensuring that no child is left behind in the journey toward academic excellence and personal growth.

Together, let us make literacy not just a goal, but a reality for all.

a. Marking and Scoring the Miscues

When administering the Fluency Passages, both the teacher and the student need to have a copy of the passage to be read by the student. While the student is reading a passage orally, the teacher records every miscue committed. The guide in marking and scoring the miscues is shown in Table 1.

Table 1. Marking and Scoring the Oral Reading Miscues

Types of Miscues	Marking the Miscue	Example	Scoring
Mispronunciation	Underline the text and write the phonetic spelling above it.	sleed slide	Count as 1 error every mispronunciation. (The dialectal variation should not be counted as an error).
Omission	Circle the omitted unit of a language.	The huge elephant.	Count as one error a word or a phrase omitted.
Substitution	Underline the text and write the substituted word above it.	money monkey	Count as one error every substitution.
Insertion	Use a caret to show where the word/s was inserted and write the word above the caret.	lovely The^ flowers in the vase.	Count a word or a phrase inserted as one error.
Repetition	Underline the portion of the text that was repeated.	They found it in the	Count as one error every word or phrase repeated.
Transposition	Use a transpositional symbol over and under the letters or words transposed.	The girl is pret ty. 2	Count as one error every transposition made.
Reversal	Write the word/nonword above the correct word.	dab bad	Count as one error every reversal made.
Self -Correction	Write S above the word that was self- corrected.	S hasn't	Don't count self-correction as an error.

b. Recording the Miscues

The summary of the miscues made are recorded on Table 9 (See Appendix D, Phil IRI Form 4).

c. Computing the Oral Reading Score per Passage

The computation of the oral reading score involves counting the number of miscues during oral reading. Each miscue carries equal weight, regardless of whether it affects the meaning of the passage or not. Pedro's oral reading illustrates a sample computation of miscues.

Oral Reading Score: $\frac{\text{the number of words} - \text{number of miscues}}{\text{number of words}} \times 100$

Example: Pedro's Performance in Oral Reading

No. of words in the passage:

65 No. of miscues:

$$\frac{65-15}{65} \times 100 = 76.9\%$$

Pedro's rating in oral reading is 76.9%

d. Recording the Speed and Rate in Oral Reading

The teacher-administrator records the time that the student starts reading the passage orally; s/he computes the number of seconds/minutes that it took the student to read the passage.

Pedro was asked to read the passage “The Snail with the Biggest House,” a Grade 5 Pre-test passage which has 103 words. It took him 1.5 minutes (90 seconds) to read the passage. Dividing 103 words by 90 seconds will yield 69; thus, Pedro's reading rate is 69 words per minute.

$$\text{Reading speed} = \frac{\text{No. of words read}}{\text{Reading time in seconds}} \times 60$$

No. of words in the passage: 103

No. of minutes it took Pedro to read it: 1.5mins. (90 seconds)

$$\frac{103 \text{ words read}}{\text{per minute 90 seconds}} \times 60 = 68.6 \text{ or } 69 \text{ words}$$

Pedro's reading rate: 69 words per minute

Pre-test Passage

My First Baseball Game

Randy Ryan

I remember my first Cubs game. My uncle came to take my sister and me to it. It was a sunny Saturday. He drove all the way from Indiana to get us. Then we took the train to the ballpark. He said it would be hard to find a parking space there, so he didn't drive there. He was right. When we got there it was so crowded. We had tickets that were for seats far back. It seemed like I climbed about 300 steps to get to them. But when we got there and I turned around I could see everything. I saw the whole field. It was much better than watching it on TV. Then the game started. Everyone cheered. The man next to me said, "This is going to be the year. They are playing really well." My uncle said to him, "Let's hope this is the one." But then he whispered to us, "Jerome and Felicia, we'll have to wait and see. Remember last year? They started out well and then they lost at the end." "Hey, Hey, Hey!" The Cub batter hit a ball far to the wall.

Just then I heard "Hot dogs!" "Peanuts!" I looked and saw a man with a big tray hanging from his shoulders. It was full of hotdogs in plastic wrap and bags of peanuts. "Three hot dogs," my uncle shouted. Then he gave the man next to us $6. He passed it to the man with the hot dogs. (251 Words)

He sent back three hot dogs. "This is great," I said to my uncle. "Not so great," he said. "We just struck out." While I had been watching the hotdogs, the team had struck out. It went on that way for the rest of the game. We got peanuts. We even got another hot dog. And the Cubs kept losing. We'd all hope every time a batter came to bat.

One by one they struck out. Still, everyone was staying happy. Even at the end. The score was 7 to 0. The Cubs never got a run. "Tomorrow, they'll win," one person said. "Right. This was just a bad day for them," another said. "The pitcher tomorrow is really good." When we were on the way home, I asked my uncle, "Why was everyone so sure they will win next time?" "That's what it means to be a Cubs fan.

We believe in tomorrow. When they win, it's the best. Every year, we hope. Every game we hope. That's loyalty. It's about supporting your team no matter what. Cub's fans are loyal. And it's about having fun as a family. Did you have fun?" As our uncle was about to drive home to Indiana, Felicia said, "It was great. I see what you meant. Even when they lose, they are like a family, they stick together. Thanks for taking us. And thanks for being loyal to us."

The Singing Plant

Todd awoke to singing. The singing was light and airy. It reminded him of a sunrise. Well that's appropriate, thought Todd, it's so early the sun is probably just rising. As his mind grew more awake, Todd realized that he didn't know where the music was coming from. He checked his radio, as well as his phone. Nothing. He stretched and looked around his room. Nothing in here would be singing, he thought. Todd got out of bed and walked toward his window, thinking that maybe one of his neighbors was playing music.

The music didn't get louder as he walked toward the window, and when he opened the window he could tell that the music did not come from outside. Todd walked toward his bedroom door, but was hesitant to go out into the hallway. It was still pretty dark, and the rest of his family was still asleep. That always made him nervous to leave his room. It's only singing, though, there's nothing scary about that, Todd thought. He opened the door, and could hear the music coming from downstairs. He walked downstairs and followed the music into the kitchen. There, he found the source of the music, but he couldn't believe his eyes!

The Singing Plant

The plants on the windowsill above the sink were singing! Singing plants! How is this possible? There were 3 of them, all gently swaying and singing together. Todd sat and watched them for a while, trying to understand how and why the plants had all of a sudden become musical plants. Their song faded away after a few minutes, and the plants became still. Todd stayed to watch, just in case they started singing again. His Dad found him sitting in the kitchen watching the plants. "What's going on, Todd?" his dad asked. "What kind of plant are these?" Todd asked in return. "They're just little houseplants, they won't grow too much bigger than they are now. Why?" "They were singing."

I didn't know plants could sing!" exclaimed Todd. "Todd, plants don't sing. Were you dreaming?" Dad asked, concerned. "No, really, they were! That's what woke me up this morning!" "Hmmm..." Dad sighed. He walked over to the sink, grabbed a cup, and began to water the plants. He jumped back in surprise when the flowers started singing a happy little tune! "Holy cow! They must have been thirsty! I've never seen anything like this!"

A Glass of Cold Water

Everybody calls me young, beautiful, wonderful. Am I? Look at my hair, my lips, my red rosy cheeks and a pair of blinkering eyes.

I remember, somebody says that I look like my mother that I look like my mother. But that when she was young. Now, I am much lovelier than she is. I'm a mortal Venus. Oops! What time is it? I must get ready for the party! Beep-beep...!A-huh! Here they are! Yes, I'm coming! "Child, are you still there?" "Hmp! That's my mama" "Child, are you still there? Will you please get me a glass of cold water?"

"Mama, I'm in a hurry!"
"Please child, try to get me a glass of cold water." "Mama, please, try to get it on your own." "Please child, try to get me a glass of cold water!" At the party, I danced and danced the whole night. You see, I can't leave the party at once. I have to dance with everybody who proposed to me.

At last, the party is over. I'm very tired. Very, very tired. So, I went home to tell mama what happened. "Mama, I'm home! It's very quiet. "Mama, I'm home!" Nobody answers. Where is she? I look for her in the sala, but she's not there. Where is she? A-huh! In the kitchen! I saw my mama, lying down on the floor, dead. With a glass on her hand. I remember, she tried to get it. Oh, God, just for the glass of cold water! Mama! Ma-ma! Oh, Mama! <https://speechfest.wordpress.com/2012/06/01/a-glass-of-cold-water/>

The Elephant and the Crocodile

An Elephant and a Crocodile were once standing beside a river. They were disputing as to which was the better animal. "Look at my strength," said the Elephant. "I can tear up a tree, roots and all, with my trunk." "Ah! but quantity is not quality, and your skin is not nearly so tough as mine," replied the Crocodile, "for neither spear, arrow, nor sword can pierce it." Just as they were coming to blows, a Lion happened to pass. "Heyday, sirs!" said His Majesty, going up to them, "let me know the cause of your quarrel." "Will you kindly tell us which is the better animal?" cried both at once. "Certainly," said the Lion. "Do you see that soldier's steel helmet on yonder wall?" pointing at the same time across the river. "Yes!" replied the beasts. "Well, then," continued the Lion, "go and fetch it, and bring it to me, and I shall be able then to decide between you." Upon hearing this, off they started.

The Crocodile, being used to the water, reached the opposite bank of the river first, and was not long in standing beside the wall. Here he waited till the Elephant came up. The latter, seeing at a glance how matters stood, extended his long trunk, and reached the helmet quite easily. They then made their way together back again across the river. The Elephant, anxious to keep up with the Crocodile in the water, forgot that he was carrying the helmet on his back, and a sudden lurch caused the prize to slip off and sink to the bottom. The Crocodile noticed the accident, so down he dived, and brought it up in his capacious mouth. They then returned, and the Crocodile laid the helmet at the Lion's feet. His Majesty took up the helmet, and addressing the Elephant, said: "You, on account of your size and trunk, were able to reach the prize on the wall but, having lost it, you were unable to recover it. And you," said the Lion, turning to the Crocodile, "although unable to reach the helmet, were able to dive for it and save it.

You are both wise and clever in your respective ways. Neither is better than the other."

Songs of the Witches

Round about the cauldron go:
In the poisoned entrails throw.
Toad, that under cold stone
Days and nights has thirty-one
Sweated venom sleeping got,
Boil thou first i' the charmed pot.
Double, double toil and trouble;
Fire burn and cauldron bubble.
Fillet of a fenny snake,
In the cauldron boil and bake;
Eye of newt and toe of frog,
Wool of bat and tongue of dog,
Adder's fork and blind-worm's sting,
Lizard's leg and owlet's wing.
For a charm of powerful trouble,
Like a hell-broth boil and bubble.
Double, double toil and trouble;
Fire burn and cauldron bubble.

Scale of dragon, tooth of wolf,
Witch's mummy, maw and gulf
Of the ravin'd salt-sea shark,
Root of hemlock digg'd i' the dark,
Liver of blaspheming Jew;
Gall of goat; and slips of yew
Sliver'd in the moon's eclipse;
Nose of Turk, and Tartar's lips;
Finger of birth-strangled babe
Ditch-deliver'd by a drab,
Make the gruel thick and slab:
Add thereto a tiger's chaudron,
For the ingredients of our cauldron.
Double, double toil and trouble,
Fire burn and cauldron bubble.
Cool it with a baboon's blood,
Then the charm is firm and good.
This poem is in the public domain.

The Boy Who Cried Wolf

Aesop Fable

There once was a shepherd boy who was bored as he sat on the hillside watching the village sheep. To amuse himself he took a great breath and sang out, "Wolf! Wolf! The Wolf is chasing the sheep!"

The villagers came running up the hill to help the boy drive the wolf away.

But when they arrived at the top of the hill, they found no wolf.

The boy laughed at the sight of their angry faces.

"Don't cry 'wolf', shepherd boy," said the villagers, "when there's no wolf!" They went grumbling back down the hill.

Later, the boy sang out again, "Wolf! Wolf! The wolf is chasing the sheep!" To his naughty delight, he watched the villagers run up the hill to help him drive the wolf away.

When the villagers saw no wolf they sternly said,

"Save your frightened song for when there is really something wrong! Don't cry 'wolf' when there is NO wolf!"

But the boy just grinned and watched them go grumbling down the hill once more.

Later, he saw a REAL wolf prowling about his flock. Alarmed, he leaped to his feet and sang out as loudly as he could, "Wolf! Wolf!"

But the villagers thought he was trying to fool them again, and so they didn't come.

At sunset, everyone wondered why the shepherd boy hadn't returned to the village with their sheep. They went up the hill to find the boy. They found him weeping.

"There really was a wolf here! The flock has scattered! I cried out, "Wolf!" Why didn't you come?"

An old man tried to comfort the boy as they walked back to the village.

"We'll help you look for the lost sheep in the morning," he said, putting his arm around the youth, "Nobody believes a liar...even when he is telling the truth!"
