PREFACE

Reading is the cornerstone of learning, yet it remains one of the most pressing challenges in education today. In response, the Division of Bukidnon proudly introduces Bukidnon's Unified Literacy and Intervention Gateway (BULIG) — a transformative innovation designed to improve learners' reading ability and empower every child to succeed.

BULIG is more than a program; it is a unified movement for literacy, built on collaboration, evidence-based strategies, and a deep commitment to equity in education. This initiative bridges gaps in reading proficiency by providing targeted interventions, innovative approaches, and sustainable support systems that cater to the diverse needs of learners across the division.

Through BULIG, we envision classrooms where every learner reads with confidence, comprehends with clarity, and learns with purpose. This gateway opens opportunities for life-long learning, ensuring that no child is left behind in the journey toward academic excellence and personal growth.

Together, let us make literacy not just a goal, but a reality for all.

a. Marking and Scoring the Miscues

When administering the Fluency Passages, both the teacher and the student need to have a copy of the passage to be read by the student. While the student is reading a passage orally, the teacher records every miscue committed. The guide in marking and scoring the miscues is shown in Table 1.

Table 1. Marking and Scoring the Oral Reading Miscues

Types of Miscues	Marking the Miscue	Example	Scoring
Mispronunciation	Underline the text and write the phonetic spelling above it.	sleed slide	Count as 1 error every mispronunciation. (The dialectal variation should not be counted as an error).
Omission	Circle the omitted unit of a language.	The huge elephant	Count as one error a word or a phrase omitted.
Substitution	Underline the text and write the substituted word above it.	money monkey	Count as one error every substitution.
Insertion	Use a caret to show where the word/s was inserted and write the word above the caret.	lovely the^ flowers in the vase	Count a word or a phrase inserted as one error.
Repetition	Underline the portion of the text that was repeated.	They found it in the	Count as one error every word or phrase repeated.
Transposition	Use a transpositional symbol over and under the letters or words transposed.	The girl is pret	Count as one error every transposition made.
Reversal	Write the word/nonword above the correct word.	dab bad	Count as one error every reversal made.
Self-Correction	Write S above the word that was self-corrected.	S hasn't	Don't count self-correction as an error.

b. Recording the Miscues

The summary of the miscues made are recorded on Table 9 (See Appendix D, Phil IRI Form 4).

c. Computing the Oral Reading Score per Passage

The computation of the oral reading score involves counting the number of miscues during oral reading. Each miscue carries equal weight, regardless of whether it affects the meaning of the passage or not. Pedro's oral reading illustrates a sample computation of miscues.

Oral Reading Score: $\frac{\text{the number of words} - \text{number of miscues}}{\text{number of words}} \times 100$

Example: Pedro's Performance in Oral Reading

No. of words in the passage: 65

No. of miscues: 15

$$\frac{65-15}{65} = \frac{50}{65} \times 100 = 76.9\%$$

Pedro's rating in oral reading is 76.9%

d. Recording the Speed and Rate in Oral Reading

The teacher-administrator records the time that the student starts reading the passage orally; s/he computes the number of seconds/minutes that it took the student to read the passage.

Pedro was asked to read the passage “The Snail with the Biggest House,” a Grade 5 Pre-test passage which has 103 words. It took him 1.5 minutes (90 seconds) to read the passage. Dividing 103 words by 90 seconds multiply by 60 will yield 69; thus, Pedro's reading rate is 69 words per minute.

$$\text{Reading speed} = \frac{\text{No. of words read}}{\text{Reading time in seconds}} \times 60$$

No. of words in the passage: 103

No. of minutes it took Pedro to read it: 1.5mins. (90 seconds)

$$\frac{103 \text{ words read}}{90 \text{ seconds}} = 68.6 \text{ or } 69 \text{ words per minute}$$

Pedro's reading rate: 69 words per minute

"Bad Girl"

Hey! Everybody seems to be staring at me..
 You! You! All of you!
 How dare you to stare at me?
 Why? Is it because I'm a bad girl?
 A bad girl I am, A good for nothing teenager, a problem child?
 That's what you call me!
 I smoke. I drink. I gamble at my young tender age.
 I lie. I cheat, and I could even kill, If I have too.
 Yes, I'm a bad girl, but where are my parents?
 You! You! You are my good parents?
 My good elder brother and sister in this society
 where I live?
 Look...look at me...What have you done to me?
 You have pampered and spoiled me, neglected me when I needed you most!
 Entrusted me to a yaya, whose intelligence was much lower than mine!
 While you go about your parties, your meetings and gambling session...
 Thus... I drifted away from you!
 Longing for a father's love, yearning for a mother's care!
 As I grew up, everything changed!
 You too have changed!
 You spent more time in your poker, mahjong tables, bars and night clubs. You even landed on the headlines of the newspaper as crooks, peddlers and you racketeers.
 Now, you call me names, accuse me of everything I do to myself?
 Tell me! How good are you?
 If you really wish to ensure my future...
 Then hurry....hurry back home! Where I await you, because I need you...
 Protect me from all evil influences that will threaten at my very own understanding...
 But if I am bad, really bad...then, you've got to help me!
 Help me! Oh please...Help me.

It is Raining

Where would you like to be in the rain?

Where would you like to be?

I'd like to be on a city street

Where the rain comes driving down

Trying to make things neat

As it washes the houses, roof and wall

The taxis, buses, cars, and all.

That's where I'd like to be in the rain

That's where I'd like to be.

It is raining.

Where would you like to be in the rain?

Where would you like to be?

I'd like to be in a tall tree top

Where the rain comes dripping drop, drop, drop, drop,

Around on every side –

where it wets the farmers, the barns, the pig.

the cows, the chickens, both little and big.

Where it batters and beats on a field of grain.

And makes the little birds hide from the rain.

That's where I'd like to be in the rain.

That's where I'd like to be.

It is raining.

Where would you like to be in the rain?

Where would you like to be?

I'd like to be on a ship at sea

Where everything's wet as can be

And the waves are rolling high

Where sailors are pulling the ropes and singing

And winds in the rigging and salt's sprays

stinging And round us sea gulls cry

On a dipping, skimming ship at sea.

That's where I'd like to be in the rain.

That's where I'd like to be.

You Learn

Song by Alanis Morissette

I recommend getting your heart trampled on to anyone
I recommend walking around naked in your living room Swallow it down
(what a jagged little pill)
It feels so good (swimming in your stomach) Wait until the dust settles

You live you learn, You love you learn
You cry you learn, You lose you learn
You bleed you learn, You scream you learn

I recommend biting off more than you can chew to anyone certainly do
I recommend sticking your foot in your mouth at anytime
Feel free

Throw it down (the caution blocks you from the wind)
Hold it up (to the rays)
You wait and see when the smoke clears

You live you learn, You love you learn
You cry you learn, You lose you learn
You bleed you learn, You scream you learn

Wear it out (like a three-year-old would do)
Melt it down (you're gonna have to eventually anyway)
The fire trucks are coming up around the bend

You live you learn, You love you learn
You cry you learn, You lose you learn
You bleed you learn, You scream you learn

You grieve you learn, You choke you learn
You laugh you learn, You choose you learn
You pray you learn, You ask you learn
You live you learn

The House on the Hill

Edwin Arlington Robinson

They are all gone away,
The House is shut and still,
There is nothing more to say.

Through broken walls and gray
The winds blow bleak and shrill:
They are all gone away.

Nor is there one to-day, To speak them good or ill:
There is nothing more to say.

Why is it then we stray, Around the sunken sill?
They are all gone away,

And our poor fancy-play, For them is wasted skill:
There is nothing more to say.

There is ruin and decay, In the House on the Hill:
They are all gone away, There is nothing more to say.

The Golden Egg

Once upon a time, there lived a cloth merchant in a village with his wife and two children. They were indeed quite well-off. They had a beautiful hen which laid an egg every day. It was not an ordinary egg, rather, a golden egg. But the man was not satisfied with what he used to get daily. He was a get rich-trice kind of a person.

The man wanted to get all the golden eggs from his hen at one single go. So, one day he thought hard and at last clicked upon a plan. He decided to kill the hen and get all the eggs together.

So, the next day when the hen laid a golden egg, the man caught hold of it, took a sharp knife, chopped off its neck and cut its body open. There was nothing but blood all around & no trace of any egg at all. He was highly grieved because now he would not get even one single egg.

His life was going on smoothly with one egg a day but now, he himself made his life miserable. The outcome of his greed was that he started becoming poorer & poorer day by day and ultimately became a pauper. How jinxed and how much foolish he was.

To the River

Edgar Allan Poe - 1809-1849

Fair river! in thy bright, clear flow
Of crystal, wandering water,
Thou art an emblem of the glow
Of beauty—the unhidden heart—
The playful mazziness of art
In old Alberto's daughter;

But when within thy wave she looks—
Which glistens then, and trembles—
Why, then, the prettiest of brooks
Her worshipper resembles;
For in my heart, as in thy stream,
Her image deeply lies—
His heart which trembles at the beam
Of her soul-searching eyes.

Be Glad Your Nose is on Your Face

By Jack Prelutsky

Be glad your nose is on your face, not pasted on some other place, for if it were where it is not, you might dislike your nose a lot.

Imagine if your precious nose, were sandwiched in between your toes, that clearly would not be a treat, for you'd be forced to smell your feet.

Your nose would be a source of dread were it attached atop your head, it soon would drive you to despair, forever tickled by your hair.

Within your ear, your nose would be an absolute catastrophe,
for when you were obliged to sneeze,
your brain would rattle from the breeze.
Your nose, instead, through thick and thin,
remains between your eyes and chin,
not pasted on some other place--
be glad your nose is on your face.

The Crocodile and the Monkey ¹³

Once upon a time, there lived a monkey on a mango tree on the banks of a river. The mangoes of that tree were the sweetest of all. The tree bore fruits year-round. The monkey used to live very happily on the tree eating the tasty fruits and playing on the tree.

On a particular day, a crocodile came near that mango tree. He seemed very exhausted. The monkey offered him some delicious mangoes from the tree. The crocodile loved those mangoes and thanked the monkey for the same. From then on, the crocodile used to visit the monkey every day and they became good friends.

One day the crocodile thought to take some mangoes for his wife. When his wife ate the mangoes, she demanded something very absurd from the crocodile. She said that these fruits are so tasty, then how delicious will be the heart of that monkey who regularly eats these mangoes!

She ordered the crocodile to bring the monkey's heart for her. The crocodile was shocked at her demand. The monkey was his friend. How could he betray him? He declined to kill the monkey and bring his heart to her.

The crocodile's wife was adamant about getting the monkey's heart. She told the crocodile that she is not keeping well and the doctor has recommended her to eat a monkey's heart to recover. She even threatened him that if the crocodile didn't get the monkey's heart for her, she would surely die. The crocodile had to give in to her order.

With a heavy heart, the crocodile left to get the monkey. He went to the monkey and said, "Friend, my wife loved the mangoes sent by you. She has invited you to our house to thank you." The monkey agreed and sat on the crocodile's back so that the crocodile could take him to his house.

In the middle of the river, the crocodile began sinking in. The monkey got frightened and he asked the crocodile as to why he was sinking. The crocodile, knowing that now there was no escape for the monkey, replied, "Forgive me, my friend. My wife needs to eat your heart to save her life. That's why I am taking you with me."

The monkey was outraged. The monkey was smart. He kept calm and told the crocodile that he would be more than happy to save his wife's life but he left his heart at the mango tree. The monkey told him that they can quickly go and get his heart from the tree.

The crocodile accepted it at once and turned back. As soon as they reached the tree, the monkey jumped onto the tree and said, "O foolish crocodile, how can someone take out his heart and keep it somewhere else? You have deceived me as a friend. Now go and never come back. The ashamed crocodile went back to his home.

Pygmalion: Henry and Eliza

George Bernard Shaw's play Pygmalion was the basis for the famous musical My Fair Lady. First performed in 1913, Pygmalion is the story of Eliza Doolittle, a poor and unsophisticated flower seller on the streets of London, who wants to learn to speak "like a lady." In this passage from Act I, she has met by chance Professor Henry Higgins, a grumpy professor of phonetics, near a church during a rainstorm. They are amongst a group of people who have gathered under the church's portico to stay dry. Henry has been listening to the other people as part of his research. Eliza was afraid for a time that he was a policeman trying to arrest her and is just beginning to recover from her fear. Henry is "The Note Taker" below. Eliza is "The Flower Girl," and "The Gentleman" is Colonel Pickering, who was part of the group. The rain has stopped.

The Flower Girl: Poor girl! Hard enough for her to live without being worried and chivied.

The Gentleman: [returning to his former place on the note taker's left] How do you do it, if I may ask? The Note Taker: Simply phonetics. The science of speech. That's my profession; also my hobby. Happy is the man who can make a living by his hobby! You can spot an Irishman or a Yorkshireman by his brogue. I can place any man within six miles. I can place him within two miles in London. Sometimes within two streets.

The Flower Girl: Ought to be ashamed of himself, unmanly coward!

The Gentleman: But is there a living in that?

The Note Taker: Oh yes. Quite a fat one. This is an age of upstarts. Men begin in Kentish Town with 80 pounds a year, and end in Park Lane with a hundred thousand. They want to drop Kentish Town; but they give themselves away every time they open their mouths. Now I can teach them—

The Flower Girl: Let him mind his own business and leave a poor girl—

The Note Taker: [explosively] Woman: cease this detestable boohooing instantly; or else seek the shelter of some other place of worship.

The Flower Girl: [with feeble defiance] I've a right to be here if I like, same as you.

The Note Taker: A woman who utters such depressing and disgusting sounds has no right to be anywhere—no right to live. Remember that you are a human being with a soul and the divine gift of articulate speech: that your native language is the language of Shakespeare and Milton and The Bible; and don't sit there crooning like a bilious pigeon.

The Flower Girl: [quite overwhelmed, and looking up at him in mingled wonder and deprecation without daring to raise her head] Ah—ah—ah—ow—ow—oo!

The Note Taker: [whipping out his book] Heavens! what a sound! [He writes; then holds out the book and reads, reproducing her vowels exactly] Ah—ah—ah—ow—ow—ow—oo!

The Flower Girl: [tickled by the performance, and laughing in spite of herself] Garn!

My First Baseball Game

Randy Ryan

I remember my first Cubs game. My uncle came to take my sister and me to it. It was a sunny Saturday. He drove all the way from Indiana to get us. Then we took the train to the ballpark. He said it would be hard to find a parking space there, so he didn't drive there. He was right. When we got there it was so crowded. We had tickets that were for seats far back. It seemed like I climbed about 300 steps to get to them. But when we got there and I turned around I could see everything. I saw the whole field. It was much better than watching it on TV. Then the game started. Everyone cheered. The man next to me said, "This is going to be the year. They are playing really well." My uncle said to him, "Let's hope this is the one." But then he whispered to us, "Jerome and Felicia, we'll have to wait and see. Remember last year? They started out well and then they lost at the end." "Hey, Hey, Hey!" The Cub batter hit a ball far to the wall.

Just then I heard "Hot dogs!" "Peanuts!" I looked and saw a man with a big tray hanging from his shoulders. It was full of hotdogs in plastic wrap and bags of peanuts. "Three hot dogs," my uncle shouted. Then he gave the man next to us $6. He passed it to the man with the hot dogs. (257 Words)
